

myWSA™

A guide for your employee health benefits

What is myWSA?

The wellness spending account (WSA) provides you an allowance to spend on eligible wellness items and services—offering personalized employee health benefits with the flexibility to choose how you spend your benefit dollars.

Your employer has allotted you a wellness allowance for the benefit year, reimbursing you (and eligible dependents) on wellness expenses that best suit your needs.* Since the WSA is a taxable benefit, this means your claims and reimbursements—the amount you use from your WSA allowance—contributes to your yearly taxable income and reported on your employee tax slip.

How do I use myWSA?

Using your WSA is as simple as accessing an eligible product or service and making a claim with proof of receipt. Make claims online through your employee portal, or download the myHSA app to make and view claims on-the-go—available on iOS and Android devices.

What's eligible under myWSA?

Access the interactive tool on your dashboard to view your list of covered items for eligible claims, chosen by your employer.

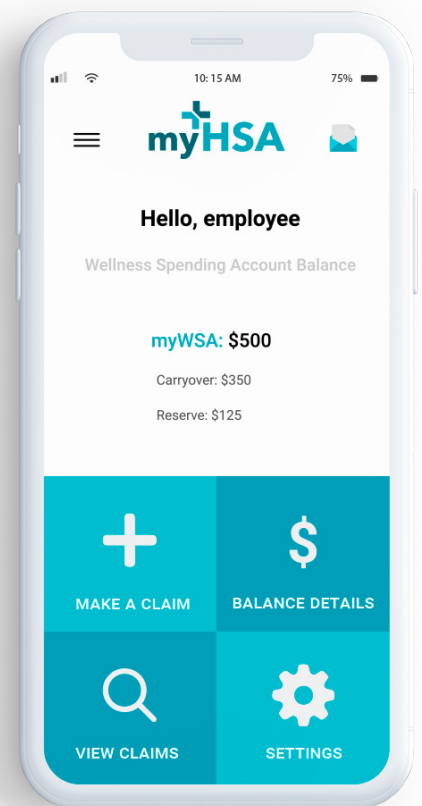

How does reimbursement work?

Once a claim is submitted and approved, reimbursement takes one to three business days. The total cost of the expense—as identified by your receipt(s)—is deposited into your bank account, and your WSA balance will update live to reflect your claims made. Make sure your personal information and bank details are up-to-date in your employee profile.
